FUZE by CallWave (Available in Summer, 2008)

HD Synchronized Video & Document Collaboration with HD Audio Conferencing

As travel continues to be more expensive, time consuming, frustrating and environmentally unfriendly, business professionals are looking for new communications solutions that facilitate access to information and real-time group collaboration. To answer this challenge, CallWave's FUZE enables seamless high-definition online collaboration between mobile and desktop users. FUZE takes online collaboration beyond the desktop, enabling users on virtually any device to experience high-definition synchronized content, high-fidelity audio conferencing, online media storage, integrated presence and secure, persistent chat – all in one easy-to-use web application.

With FUZE, there is no software to download or special equipment required. As a web service, FUZE requires little to no integration or IT management, making it an affordable unmanaged solution. And FUZE allows users the flexibility of calling in from Skype in addition to landline or mobile phones.
